FRAGMENTS OF SOLACE

For some artists, traveling the world forms the basis for their most important projects, or even their entire oeuvres. Others, meanwhile, find their creative inspiration much closer to home.

Sven Laurent definitely belongs to the latter: his quest is centred on the few square kilometres surrounding his house in the heart of Brussels.

Walking these streets has become a pressing need for the Belgian photographer, whose work is driven by an innate desire to “explore questions of space, time and existence, in order to reveal the beauty that often goes unseen.”

The Box Gallery in Brussels now presents an exhibition of Laurent’s work: ‘Fragments of Solace’ – curated by Alain D’Hooghe – is open to viewers until March 4, 2023.
